Presented by: Sacred Heart University in conjunction with the Fairfield Kiwanis Club and the Panta Delphian Society of Sacred Heart.

THE CLASSIC

The Sacred Heart University Athletic Department welcomes you to the third annual Holiday Basketball Classic.

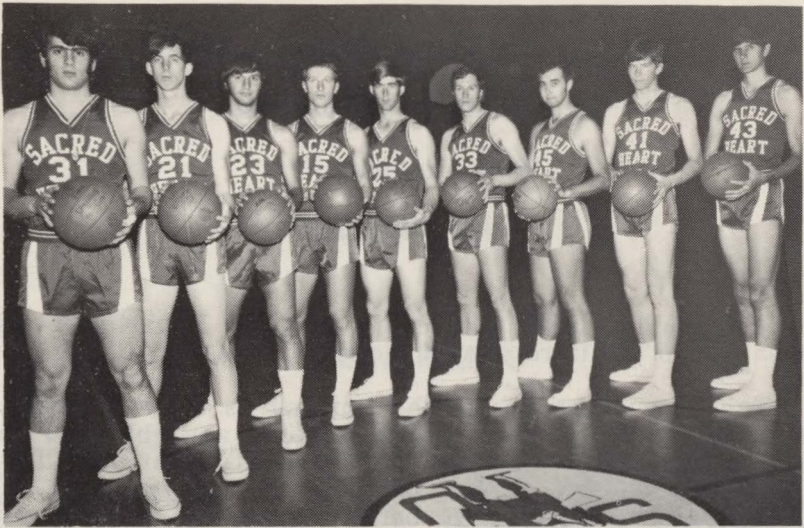

The growing strides in the university's athletic program are evidenced in the fine eight-team field assembled for this year's event. The initial Classic consisted of four teams in 1967 before expanding to its current alignment last year. In addition to the host team the field represents the Pennsylvania-New York-New England areas and provides local fans an opportunity to see each college quintet perform at least twice and possibly three times in the three-day span.

Sacred Heart hopes to make the Holiday Classic a permanent fixture in its basketball program and is making every effort to secure participants which will be deserving of your attendance. This year's lineup includes seven new teams making their initial appearance in the event with five of them on the Sacred Heart schedule for the first time.

The tournament was founded and nurtured by Athletic Director, J. Donald Feeley. Feeley has made every effort to make this year's the best ever as eight top collegiate teams and a host of outstanding individual players will perform.

The Athletic Department would also like to express its thanks to the people who made this book possible, the Fairfield Kiwanis Club and the Panta Delphian Society of Sacred Heart.

SACRED HEART UNIVERSITY

Sacred Heart will open its two-time title defense against CCNY as the Pioneers boast the best record entering the tournament. The Pioneers were 5-2 with two tussles against East Stroudsburg State and Kings College remaining at press time.

Coach J. Donald Feeley's quintet is led by senior back-court flash Rich Pucciarello, Belleville, N.J., who is averaging 19.5 points and is quickly closing in on the 2,000-point barrier. The all-time SHU leading scorer and co-captain entered the campaign with 1,582 markers in three years of varsity play.

Dan Haines, 6'3" junior guard, is the second top scorer, as all five starters are averaging in twin figures, with a 16.7 mark. Center Ed Czernota, 6' 7" native of Bridgeport, averages 16 points and as many rebounds. Bob Gers (14.7) and co-captain Bruce Bernhard (10.6) complete a high-flying offense which has totaled 95 points per game and cracked the century mark three times thus far.

BATES COLLEGE

Bates College, located in Lewiston, Me., enters the Holiday Classic with a 2-1 record.

The Bobcats are coached by George Wigton and are off to a good start following an 8-17 record in '68-'69. Bates has dropped only a 106-83 decision to Brandeis University of Waltham, Mass. The wins have been by the close variety as they edged M.I.T., 52-51, and Maine, 91-90.

Wigton has a veteran team returning with seven lettermen on the squad, but only one senior in captain Don Geissler. Geissler, a 6'2" swingman, has paced the Bobcats attack thus far.

Adding height and experience to the team are juniors Jeffrey Thompson, 6'6" center, Tim Colby, 6'6" forward, and Peter Hutchins, 6'2" forward.

Bates has not played since Dec. 10 and will be ready for its opener against Queens.

CITY COLLEGE OF NEW YORK

After three straight setbacks City College registered a pair of wins to improve its mark to 2-3 with two games remaining against Fairleigh-Dickinson and Wagner before competing in the tournament.

Despite a losing ledger it must be considered an improvement over a horrendous 3-17 record last year. The Beavers victories have been over Lehman, 65-61, and Yeshiva by a 51-46 count.

The losses have been against such powers as Columbia and NYU, while Adelphi also stung the charges of coach Dave Polansky. The veteran mentor, now in his 14th season, is led by senior co-captains Joe Mulvey and Stu Kessler. Mulvey, 6'2" forward, scored the crucial points in the Lehman win.

Junior Jay Millstein, 6'4" forward, was the second top scorer last year with an 11-point mark and joins the 10-point norm of Mulvey to give the Beavers two seasoned scorers.

The varsity received three steady players from a fine 12-7 frosh unit last year as a pair of 6'6" centers Wayne Horodowich and Warren Cohen figure to aid the CCNY attack. Horodowich averaged 14 points as a freshman and his 230 pound frame helps him under the boards.

Soph guard John Graviano has performed as expected and is counted upon for scoring support the remainder of the year.

DICKINSON COLLEGE

Dickinson College from Carlisle, Pa., carries a 3-2 won-lost mark into tourney play as they make an infrequent trip North.

Third-year coach Dave Watkins has eight players back from an 8-10 team last year. The Red Devils split their 16-game Middle Atlantic Conference southern division slate last season.

Watkins, who guided Montclair College, N.J., to a sparkling 21-5 record in 1966-67, doubled his team's victory total a year ago and the growth of the hoop sport in the Keystone State institution is making huge strides. The Dickinson College frosh displayed an unbeaten mark in their first three games this year as Watkins began an extensive recruiting program.

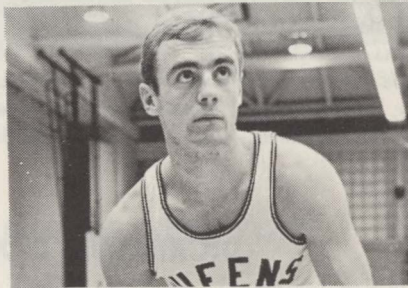

Leading the varsity squad is senior captain Ted Jursek, 6'3" forward from Holliston, Mass. Jursek has led the Red Devils in scoring and rebounding the past two years and is on top again this season.

Dickinson boasts ample size in 6'6" junior center John Pearson, who has complemented Jursek in both offensive categories. The Carlisle school has experience and depth and they like the taste of winning. They hope to extend a two-game winning streak in the Classic's lidlifter against Southern Connecticut.

JOE SEDLACK

QUEENS COLLEGE

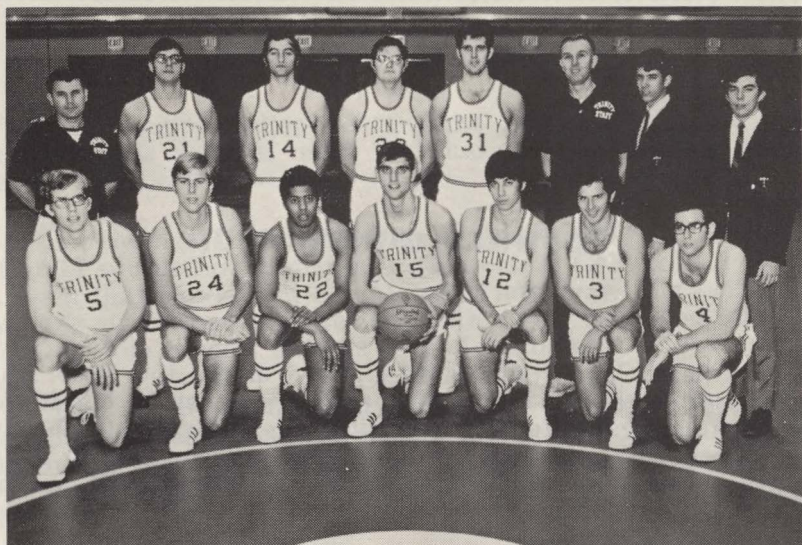

Coach Charlie Crawford's Queens College quintet is spiced with underclassmen as the Knights are in a rebuilding campaign following an 8-14 record last year.

The Knickerbocker Conference member posted a 2-3 mark at press time and had games with Pratt and Oswego left to play before participating in the Classic. The Knights broke a three-game losing streak with a resounding 112-75 victory over New York Maritime recently.

Two of the losses were to league foes in Kings Point and Stonybrook, while the other was to Marist. Queens opened its season with a 76-56 win over Drew.

Leading the attack has been senior co-captains John Sedlack and Hal Krieger. Sedlack, a conference all-star last year with an 18.9 scoring mark, has topped the offense in the first five games and holds a 19-3 overage.

Queens will make its initial tourney appearance against Bates College. The New York team has played Sacred Heart in the past, but this is their first year in the Classic.

TRINITY COLLEGE

Trinity College, riding a two-game winning streak, enters the tourney with an overall 3-1 mark. The Hartford, Conn. school rates as one of the teams that could possibly dethrone Sacred Heart.

The Bantams are directed by Robert Shults and boast seven returning veterans from last year's 9-12 finish. The team is paced by senior captain Joe Pantalone, a 6'6" pivotman from New Canaan, Conn.

Five other Nutmeg residents are on the Trinity roster and all have played an important part in the team's early season success. The triumphs have been over Brandeis, 83-81, Coast Guard, 82-70, and M.I.T. by a 94-90 margin. Middlebury handed them an 86-75 loss.

This marks the 74th year that Trinity has been playing the hoop sport as they adopted the game in 1896 as the influence of Dr. Naismith made a lasting impression on the school.

Trinity's first contest is against Swarthmore College.

SOUTHERN CONNECTICUT

Southern Connecticut State College enters the 1969 Holiday Classic with a 2-2 overall record and must be considered a serious contender for the title. The New Haven, Conn. five had games with nationally-ranked small college power A.I.C. and the University of Bridgeport before tipping off against Dickinson in the tourney.

Coach Ed Brown, now in his second term at the helm of the Owls, plays one of the most demanding schedules of the tournament teams and has only four returning lettermen from a 5-19 squad last year.

The North-East league member opened its season with a 77-69 upset win over Fairfield University, but then dropped home tussles to Sacred Heart and Quinnipiac before edging Kings Point, 87-83.

Co-captain Jim Gleason, 6'1" senior forward, and soph Ilmar Tarikas, 6'3" forward, lead the Elm City crew with 18-0 scoring averages. Glenn Pollard, former All-State guard from Wilbur Cross High, is the sparkplug on offense with his play making and he also owns a 14.3 per game mark.

Morris Moreland, 6'5" soph pivotman from Hillhouse, and Branford's Ted Kaczynski, 6'0" soph guard, are the other starters.

The Owls rely on underclassmen and it is their ability to produce which will determine how successful Brown's second year will be.

SWARTHMORE COLLEGE

Swarthmore College enters the tournament with a new coach and a veteran team that has one major goal for the season—to tally a winning record.

Rookie mentor Ernest Prudente comes to the Little Quakers after 17 successful campaigns at Haverford College and inherits a team that carved out a 5-11 mark last year. The task of improving upon that slate resides with seven returning lettermen who provide a solid nucleus to build around.

The Garnet-garbed Quakers have struggled through 18 consecutive losing seasons, despite toying with the .500 plateau on several occasions. However, the '68-'69 season finale upset win over Prudente's last Haverford quintet was an encouraging sight for the coming year.

Swarthmore made Prudente's debut a two-fold success by capturing the opener against F & M by a 72-68 score and then nipping Dickinson, 68-66. But suddenly they have reverted to past ways as three straight opponents took decisions from the Quakers.

After a crushing 118-64 loss to Muhlenberg, Swarthmore dropped games to John Hopkins and Ursinus to finish pre-tourney play with a 2-3 ledger.

Frank Burns, senior captain, has paced the attack the last two seasons and the 6'3" forward was expected to take charge again this year until a pre-season injury forced him to the sidelines. The lone senior on the team, however, is expected to be ready for the Holiday Classic.

Guards Fred Miceli, 5'11" soph, and junior Paul Schechtman, 6'0", provide Swarthmore with a potent backcourt offense. They will receive support from a trio of sophomore up from a fine J.V. unit in Bob Furia, Richard Harley and Art Hauptman.

Up front Prudente has three big men to choose from in juniors James Clymer and Craig DeShea, a pair of 6'5" lettermen, and soph Bill Sieck.

If Swarthmore can rely upon its returnees and get a healthy Burns back into the lineup it appears only a matter of time before Prudente will turn about the age-old victory hex.
