

Notes on Contributors

JOHN BORELLI, PH.D., is director of the Institute for Inter-religious Leadership, cosponsored by the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and the National Association of Diocesan Ecumenical Officers. The recipient of a doctoral degree in theology and the history of religions from Fordham University, he has contributed articles, presentations, and reports to such publications as Marian Studies, New Theology Review, Ecumenical Trends, Faith Alive, The Living Light, Buddhist-Christian Studies, Pro Dialogo, and Ecumenism. He lives with his wife and three children in Bethesda, Maryland.

ANTHONY J. CERNERA, PH.D., has been President of Sacred Heart University in Fairfield, Connecticut since 1988. He earned his doctoral degree in systematic theology from Fordham University and continues to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate levels. He has lectured extensively on world hunger, on justice and peace issues, on social action, and on a variety of theological topics. His articles have appeared in Living Light, Momentum, and The Way. In 1995 he edited Toward Greater Understanding: Essays in Honor of John Cardinal O'Connor, published by the Sacred Heart University Press. He lives with his wife and four children in Fairfield, Connecticut.

BRIGID CURTIN FREIN, PH.D., is an associate professor at the University of Scranton in the Department of Theology/Religion

Studies, where she also serves as departmental chair. She received her doctoral degree in Biblical Languages and Literature from St. Louis University. Her research focuses on the Gospel of Luke and narrative criticism. She lives with her husband and three children in Scranton, Pennsylvania.

JEFFREY GROS, F.S.C., is the Director of the Commission on Faith and Order of the National Council of Churches in the United States. He holds a doctoral degree in systematic theology from Fordham University and graduate degrees from Marquette University and St. Mary's College in Winona, Minnesota. In 1986 he received the James Fitzgerald Award for Ecumenism from the National Association for Diocesan Ecumenical Officers. Dedicated to the ecumenical movement, he is a frequent speaker for councils of churches, teacher for ecumenical seminars, editor of several studies on ecumenical issues, and writer for theological journals and periodicals.

JAN MICHAEL JONCAS is a priest of the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minnesota. He received his S.L.D. degree from the Pontificio Instituto Liturgico at the Collegio Sant'Anselmo in Rome, Italy and has been an assistant professor in the Department of Theology at the University of St. Thomas since 1991. In addition to composing and recording several collections of liturgical music, he has contributed articles, reviews, and interviews to numerous journals, including Worship, Pastoral Music, Modern Liturgy, Church, and Eucharistic Minister.

JAMES F. KEENAN, S.J., received his doctoral degree from the Gregorian University in Rome. He is associate professor of moral theology at Weston Jesuit School of Theology in Cambridge, Massachusetts. His books include Goodness and Rightness in Thomas Aquinas' Summa Theologiae, The Context of Casuistry (with Thomas Shannon), and Virtues for Ordinary Christians.

GEORGIA MASTERS KEIGHTLEY, PH.D., is associate professor of theology at Trinity College in Washington, DC. She is currently chair of a Catholic Theological Society of America task force preparing a study on Communion Ecclesiology and Collaborative Ministry. Program coordinator and host of the cable television series "Making a Just World," she has served as advisor to the Bishops' Committee on Laity and has been consultant to the Family, Women, and Evangelization committees. Her essays on feminism and Catholic social thought have appeared in Things Old and New: Catholic Social Teaching Revisited and Values, Work, Education: The Meanings of Work. She has also published in Horizons, Biblical Theology Bulletin, Church, and America.

H. RICHARD MCCORD, JR. has been the Associate Director of the U.S. Catholic Bishops' Committee on the Laity since 1988. Prior to this, he held various administrative and educational positions at diocesan and parish levels of church life. He holds graduate degrees in theology and education. A regular contributor to Faith Alive and to such publications as Church, Liguorian, Catholic World, and Deacon Digest, he has also contributed chapters to several books on lay ministry and family life. He is married and the father of one child.

WILLIAM C. MCDONOUGH is a diocesan priest of the Archdiocese of St. Paul and Minneapolis. For seven years he has been teaching moral theology at the Saint Paul Seminary School of Divinity and the University of St. Thomas. His publications are in the areas of moral epistemology and sexual morality.

OLIVER J. MORGAN, S.J., is a pastoral psychotherapist and theologian with expertise in addictionology. He is currently associate professor of counseling and human services at the University of Scranton in Scranton, Pennsylvania, where he also chairs the Center for Mission Reflection.

DAVID O'BRIEN is Loyola Professor of Roman Catholic Studies at the College of the Holy Cross in Worcester, Massachusetts. His books include Isaac Hecker: An American Catholic, From the Heart of the American Church: Catholic Higher Education and American Culture, and Public Catholicism: American Catholicism and Public Life.

MARGARET A. PALLISER, O.P., a Dominican Sister of Sparkhill, New York, earned her S.T.B., S.T.L., and S.T.D. from the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome. Her areas of theological expertise are in spirituality and liturgy. Her critically acclaimed study of Julian of Norwich's theology of mercy, Christ, Our Mother of Mercy, was published in 1992 by the distinguished firm of Walter DeGruyter in Berlin. Dr. Palliser has served since 1993 as Director of Campus Ministry at Sacred Heart University in Fairfield, Connecticut, where she is also an adjunct assistant professor of religious studies. She has written for Review for Religious, Celebration, Eucharistic Minister, and The Julian Papers.